

The Ruby and the Caldron

Anna Katharine Green

The Ruby and the Caldron

by Anna Katharine Green (1846-1935)

In this novel by “the Mother of the detective novel”, a valuable ruby is lost during a disturbance in the snow before a ball at The Evergreens. A detective is called for right away to recover it, but who, of the few guests, might have the jewel, and how to solve the mystery without causing a scandal?

Total running time: 1:09:48

Read by Carolin Kaiser

Cover design by Kathryn Delaney
Detail of a photograph of a Polish eagle with garnet body by BurgererSF

The Ruby and the Caldron

Anna Katharine Green